INVgolf invites all stakeholders in the golf industry and beyond to participate in the European Golf Business Conference 2007 to discuss the future of the golf business, network, and present your company, products or services to golf course owners

Renaissance Hotel, Amsterdam
November 28-30, 2007

The European Golf Business Conference 2007 will return to Amsterdam in November at the five-star Renaissance Hotel. The success of last year's inaugural event (in which Peter Michel Heilmann, Founder & Director, INVgolf, participated) and the positive feedback from delegates has persuaded us to make our conference an annual event. This year's event will be held from November 28-30.

The European Golf Course Owners Association (EGCOA) represents more than 600 golf course owners in 12 European countries. Together with the National Golf Course Owners Association (NGCOA) of the United States, the NGCOA of Canada and Asian owners, the EGCOA is part of the world alliance of golf course owners which represents around 7,000 golf courses world-wide.

Golf is changing rapidly. What will the future of golf mean to golf courses? What are the trends in European golf development? What do golfers expect from golf courses? How can we create the right product for the 21st century golfer? In short: how can we grow the game of golf in the future?

The 2007 European Golf Business Conference will touch on all these subjects. In nine sessions, specialists from across the world will offer their thoughts and insight on the development of golf. Growing the game is our common interest - and we need to help each other achieve this ambition.

The goal of the conference is to bring together European golf businesses in order to improve the running of golf courses, to share ideas, to make friends and to grow the game of golf together with all stakeholders.

The conference and golf industry show is the perfect opportunity to network with important decision-makers in the golf industry: golf course owners, golf club managers, directors of golf, suppliers, representatives of national and European golf bodies, golf course architects and industry partners. It is an ideal platform on which to present your company, products or services to golf course owners.

The World Alliance of Golf Course Owners will also meet during the conference.

The conference will take place in the Renaissance Hotel in Amsterdam. The five-star hotel evokes European charm and is connected to the historic Koepelkerk, a magnificent 17th-Century domed church, where the conference will take on a whole new ambience.
